Helping you celebrate

Party planner

We have prepared this booklet to help make planning for your next party, barbecue or special occasion even easier.

We can help find just the right product to suit the occasion and your budget, and have put together a few simple guidelines for quantities you may require.

Typically, most functions will run over a five hour period, and during this time, males will drink approximately six standard drinks and females will drink approximately four.

Based on our experience, these recommendations will be suitable for most situations, but remember that you will know your guests best!

Our staff will help with pricing

Beverage	Tips	Servings	Quantity	Your selection	Single price	Total price
 Beers	In general cater for 75% full strength and 25% low alcohol. In WA & QLD the mix should be 25% full strength, 50% mid strength and 25% low alcohol.	4 x 375ml stubbies/cans per person.
 Champagne &amp; Sparkling	The difference between Champagne & Sparkling Wine is actually geography. Champagne is produced in the Champagne region in France, and Sparkling wine is produced in all other parts of the world.	10 Glasses per bottle for a toast or 6 standard glasses (125ml) per bottle for drinking or 1 x 750ml bottle for every 2 people.
 Bottled Wine	For a standard party, more people tend to prefer white than red, especially in summer, so choose 2 whites for every red. For a sit down dinner party, the split is generally 50/50, but can vary depending on the food served and the season.	6 standard wine glasses (125ml) per bottle or 1 x 750ml bottle for every 2 people.
 Cask Wine	Quality cask wine can be a practical alternative to bottled wine, particularly when you are entertaining a large number of guests on a tight budget.	16 standard wine glasses (125ml) per 2 litre cask or 1 x 2 litre cask for every 5 people.
 Spirits	A combination of light and dark spirits should cater for most spirit drinkers. If mixing cocktails, be sure to consult your favourite cocktail book first for the right ingredients.	4 x standard drinks (30ml for spirits) per person or 23 standard drinks per bottle.
 Premix &amp; RTD's	Traditional flavours will usually be the most popular, but try mixing a few more unusual varieties to your selection to add interest for your guests.	4 x 375 ml cans / bottles per person.
 Soft Drinks	Don't forget to get a good selection of flavoured soft drinks and waters to suit all tastes, including orange juice, carbonated and still beverages.	MIXERS: 1.5 mixers per 300ml bottle or 6 mixers per 1.25 litre bottle NON DRINKERS: 3 x 375ml cans or bottles per person or 1 x 1.25 litre bottle for every 2 people.

Don't forget to order Ice
